Is Life An Exercise in Faith?

Think About It! Don't you want others to have faith in you? Of course you do! But do you know how to actually earn that faith?

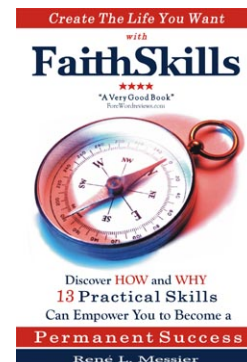

According to the author of FaithSkills, Rene L. Messier, "many want the faith of others but few know how to earn it. It's now time to awaken people to this core instrument of their emotional intelligence".

Amazingly, many people expect others to have faith in them, but don't exercise faith in themselves, and then wonder why relationships fall apart.

Messier, an Internationally Awarded and Recognized entrepreneur, has written about this cornerstone instrument of emotional intelligence from years of hands-on experience and proven results. Acclaimed for his ability to create loyal success-driven teams, he reveals how to develop loyal relationships and actually implement the long sought-after skill of "leading by the heart and managing the mind".

Acclaimed by readers to be the "Owners Manual to Success" this thought provoking book explores material that none of its predecessors have, and empowers the reader to:

- Reverse the accelerating trend of declining trustworthiness in their lives by empowering them to regain faith in themselves and those around them.
- Improve their morale by providing a clear "roadmap" of conduct that enables them to "esteem" themselves and those around them.
- Become more "emotionally attuned", as many are yearning for today, by revealing the "doorways" between their physical actions and their powerful emotional intelligences.

Different than anything that's ever been written, FaithSkills deals with unexplored material in ways that are revealing and empowering. As one reader puts it

"You're onto something huge. This is a quantum leap and the key to success. Every person, every businessperson, every business leader needs this.

It's Incredible!"
