True Leadership Finally Defined - The results are truly Amazing!

The mysterious intangibles of powerful leadership have finally been defined and the results may be stunning to many.

The coveted ability to lead by the heart and manage the mind is easier for some and will become less difficult for others, once they read this new and revealing book entitled FaithSkills.

The key to leading by the heart, according to Messier, the author, isn't in the skills themselves as many think, but rather in the organization and order that the skills are developed.

They must be applied in a correct order so they build one upon the other, transforming everyday skills into deep emotional motivators. Have a look at how familiar terms become high impact instruments. You'll recognize many of Mom's attributes as you do:

1. Stewardship – You must first be selflessly accountable and responsible for the results of the day.
2. Obedience – As a steward your obedience to organization and order builds respect from others.
3. Devotion – Your ability to obey forms devotion with purpose that inspires others to follow.

4. Cooperation – You devoutly facilitate the cooperation of others to attain balance and harmony.

5. Fearlessness – Balance and harmony can't be maintained without fearlessness to overcome opposition.

6. Reflection – Wise leaders reflect on mistakes to accelerate growth and nurture others to do the same.

7. Humility – Constant personal reviews affirm that enduring leadership is given and not taken.

8. Discipline – Aware of how fragile trust is, true leaders become fearlessly disciplined to keep it.

9. Honesty – Is mandated by everyone. Without it, discipline can never be maintained.

10. Valiance – There's nothing more powerful than passionate action to stir the hearts of many.

11. Authenticity – Is the derivative of honest passionate actions that affirm your efforts are genuine.

12. Cultivation – You cultivate genuine relationships that produce profound loyalties.

13. Faithfulness – Only when the previous 12 skills are being applied can a leader be faithful and thus deserve the faithfulness of others.
